

FOOD NEWS

These were carved from stone!

DOUGH TO GO

For 28 years, the DoubleTree hotel chain has been handing out warm chocolate chip cookies to guests at check-in, and the recipe has been a closely guarded secret since the beginning. Now, for the first time, DoubleTree is selling frozen dough so you can make as many as you want—and sleep in your own bed to boot. $46 for 6 pounds; doubletreecookies.com

ROCK STARS

These stone sculptures are so convincing that some of artist Robin Antar's houseguests have actually mistaken them for the real deal. Inspired by classic American foods, Antar carves pieces of stone and marble into sculptures of condiments, candy and packages of cookies, all of which are on display at Pop International Galleries (popinternational.com) in New York City through 2015.

SCULPTURES: ROBIN ANTAR
COOKIES: MARCO VENTURA/STUDIO